About the Author

Joe Girard is the author of several bestselling books. One of the world's most sought-after speakers, he appears before sales conventions of many major corporations, including General Electric, IBM, and Allstate Insurance.

From AudioFile

Unfortunately, the upbeat title of this audiobook is not supported by its content and performance. Co-author Joe Girard's delivery is slow and labored, wandering over the prosaic, philosophical terrain without much new insight. This self-help program would benefit from a more energetic reader practiced at the get-up-and-go of the '90's. Since the original was published in 1979, it's possible that the material contributes to the feeling of dŽj^ vu. Without the book, it's hard to say if the audio adaptation has cheated the book of its punch. But the practical suggestions for selling oneself are too few, and they're not very motivating or inspiring. E.F.A. (c)AudioFile, Portland, Maine

HOW TO SELL YOURSELF--Must Reading

By Jesus J. Rodriguez

For me this is a classic. I have read the book three times, I am getting reacquainted and take in the content, concepts and motivation associated with this book all over again. I especially like and believe in the strong suggestion that you get a "#1" lapel pin and wear it as a way of communicating that you are number one in your life and that it becomes a great item for discussion that could take any direction possible. Very, very good book. Lessons shared are great, suggestions made are practical and endearing to what anybody wants to accomplish by reading this book. I will probably read it again after I finish this reading but wait a few years.

Times change, but salesmanship remains the same.

By C. bouchi

One of the things that never change: It does not matter how technology evolves. At the end, there are some products that the service of a salesman is required: Insurance, cars, Real Estate, most industrial parts and machinery, etc. Mr Girard demonstrated that he is one of the top salesmen of modern times, maybe the best, so I chose to learn from him. Just adapt his teachings to fit today's environment and you will be an expert in selling yourself and your product.

Another great author that I do recommend that is at the same stature is Joe Gandolfo. Check him too.

Love this book

By Gerrard M

Joe Girard is one of the best salesmen ever. He is 100% right about everything he says, what you sell is not your product but yourself. So if you want people to buy your product, then you have to learn to sell yourself.
