139pages. poche. broché. Juan Pablo Castel est artiste peintre et meurtrier. C'est son histoire qu'il va dépeindre depuis sa cellule. Un autoportrait tout en taches sombres, bardé par endroit de couleurs violentes, d'éclairs de lucidité, que ni sa conscience ni les faits ne peuvent contenir. Un autoportrait au fusain, noir et gris, avec du rouge. Ce rouge qui prendra bientôt plusieurs significations, au fil de son témoignage et de sa volonté de se comprendre : le rouge de la passion et le rouge du sang. Car, dès le départ, Juan Pablo Castel nous dévoile tout. Il est l'assassin de la femme qu'il continue à aimer, malgré la mort, plus que sa vie. Derrière un pseudo roman policier à l'intrigue dévoilée se cache un ouvrage à l'ambition téméraire : nous donner à voir toute la pensée de l'auteur, son humanisme, sa vision du monde moderne, son existentialisme. À la fois réflexion sur la solitude de l'artiste et sur l'incapacité de son personnage à communiquer, cet livre est aussi une touchante mise en écriture de la passion amoureuse, lucide et cruelle. Premier roman de l'écrivain argentin Ernesto Sábato, Le Tunnel fut salué à sa parution, en 1948, comme un ouvrage majeur par Albert Camus et Graham Greene. -Hector Chavez
